About me

I am a dedicated programming student, passionate about technology and creativity. Although I'm early in my IT career, I've built up my knowledge in specialized classes in college, focusing on developing my skills in HTML and C++ (I'm still having problems with this language). I started to study the JavaScript language on my own. My passion for art, especially dance, has cultivated creative thinking and excellent teamwork skills. I want to contribute to an innovative IT team where I can apply my knowledge and creativity to develop effective and inspiring solutions.
